THE TIMES - VIRGINIAN

Carver High School

Hello Readers. Reporters are again rescuing the latest happenings at Carver.

The biggest news of the past week-end was the annual Invitational tournament between the boys. The eleventh grade team won. Players were Johnny Hall, Harrison Bowman, Elbert Harris, Harrison Bell, who was the high point man. Ted Bess and Theopolus Johnson. All the games were interesting and exciting. The 7th and the 11th grade games were particularly outstanding and showed much promise for the future Carver basketball teams.

Plans for the annual N. F. A. banquet are complete at this writing. Mr. Bell and Mr. Davis have worked very hard to make this year's banquet a success, as if you have noticed we have rarely have to get an invitation better late next year. Mr. M. F. French, of Virginia State College is the speaker. We'll make a complete report.

Incidentally, Carver is proud to acknowledge that two of her students attended the N. F. A. trustees meeting at the Dunbar Hotel in Lynchburg, Monday and Tuesday. Norrace Watkins is state first vice-president, and Joe Frank Talbert is state secretary. Both of these boys are seniors and are leaders in the state N. F. A. organization.

Mr. Harriett P. James and Mr. E. T. Johnson attended the regional conference at Virginia State College March 24-25. Eighteen leaders from various localities in this state were in session.

The Science Club recently held its meeting and four members were elected to participate in the science

By The Editor

A COUNTRY EDITOR ON TOUR

Last week we discussed amazing Silver Springs, Florida. Frankly, we would like to take up more space with our report on this attractive city, especially our pleasant stay in Ocala, Florida, a thriving city of six miles from Silver Springs, but, if we don't hurry along with account of our recent vacation, we will think we did nothing but write!

We must toss in a paragraph about Ross Allen's Rattlesnake Farm, and Ocala in general. There were redbirds around of the poinsetta in its Christmas beauty, with lobed trees and brilliant scarlet bracts. C. "Jake" Crews is mayor of Ocala; a city of over 12,000 population. He won in the election of November 11, 1951, defeating Dr. T. C. Islar, whose term expired January 8, 1952. And for golf fans, "Slugging Sam" Snead was the star. A golf tournament while we were there. The Southeastern Brahman Breeders' 1952 Stock Show was held February 13 to 18: an exhibit of Brahman cattle was something new to see: on Route 301, one mile south of Ocala. Ah yes—Ocala. If you want to get particular: there is Munroe and Chambliss National Bank on the corner of Main and Broadway; there is the Spanish type Motor Court Hotel, Mrs. D. E. Boland, manager; there is J. T. Tidwell, Jr., at the Professional Pharmacy, 1308 E. Ocklawaha; the Ocala Bowling Center at 412 West Broadway; Sarres Drive-In Restaurant and Cafeteria, on north side of Court House Square—yes, and Ross Allen's Reptile Institute and Rattlesnake Farm, and the Ocala Hotel, with its famous "Flamingo Mob" and Flamingo Motel; Pine Knoll Motor Court at Shepard's on Motor Court: Stein, the Cleaner; Peninsular Bank & Trust Co. —and where will we stop? Well, we wanted to say was at Ross Allen's Rattlesnake Farm is where Mother Brightsafe's ever sightseeing activities. got off to a good start. You enter the place shortly after you leave fabulous cruises at Silver Springs. You wander along exhibits of reptiles and animals. By an Indian village, and come to an enclosure, and so help me, a gentle deer comes walking up, and you and there, unbelieving at first, of that rubbing the deer like you would the family dog: and heavens to Betsy, why did you leave your cars in the car! And next a friendly Flamingo strolls up, and assassin—and monkeys— this is another different; you are in a veritable world of animals you had believed were not friendly, suddenly finding they are so very friendly—with YOU!.

Then the attendants call you over to the pits where the rattlesnakes are kept, and the alligators. Mother Brightsafe did not relish this section of the trip and in a few minutes she had gone places, somewhere, but not in the rattlesnake pit, or me, I got my money's worth out of seeing rattlesnakes by the dozen and watching the attendants handle them.

Ross Allen's Rattlesnake Farm; they make their money three ways: Lots of people buy tickets to see their exhibits at Silver Springs. And they can and sell rattlesnake meat. Third, they sell venom to laboratories all over the world. Ross has some a price list of their offerings and canned rattlesnake meat, and I stood by to make pits and watched an expert walk around among many dozens of deadly poisonous rattlesnakes, watched him reach over and pick up one and hold the snake over a glass and "milk" the snake, collecting the venom in a glass. And then, he can have the job. But I'll tell to know that America comes up with men who will tackle

Abbitt Asks Step-Up In 'Shank' Defense

Washington, March 31.- Money for a stepped-up fight against the costly black shank disease is being urged by Rep. W. M. Abbitt.

Additional money, he said, is needed for research work by federal and state experts in breeding plants resistant to this and other tobacco diseases.

"The estimated cost to intensify present research is only $200,000," Abbitt said in an interview. "This is a small amount compared with the value of the tobacco crop."

Abbitt said black shank cost Virginia tobacco growers between 10 and 15 million dollars last year in damaging the state's $103 million crop. The additional money would be spent at the government's Beltsville, Md., experiment station and the experiment stations in the 12 tobacco - growing states," he said.

"We want to ear-mark this money for this specific program," he added.

Abbitt said he will urge members of the House Appropriations Committee to include the funds in the Department of Agriculture appropriations bill.

Greatest Last Year

Damage to tobacco in Virginia from black shank was greater last year than any year before, Abbitt said. "The disease is gaining headway and is reaching a critical stage," he declared. Experiments are being aimed at developing a variety resistant to both black shank and Granville wilt.

A stepped-up research program, Abbitt said, would involve the use of a tropical, or sub-tropical, experiment station to grow two generations of plants within one year. This gain of an extra generation a year plus ample scientific talent would save time in the "fight to avert disaster to large parts of the tobacco growing areas," Abbitt said.

In recent testimony before House Appropriations subcommittee, Dr. Ralph W. Cummings, research director, North Carolina experiment station, said it was evident that "virtually all farms in North Carolina and Virginia producing bright tobacco will be infected within a very few years. At the present we now have only a moderate degree of resistance in some flue-cured lines to Granville wilt and black shank. We do not have immunity to these diseases nor do we have a high degree of resistance to some of the other serious diseases which complicate the problem of growing this resistance variety on many tobacco farms."

Abbitt said, "We can readily understand, when we review the economic situation, how important tobacco is to all of the people of Virginia. It will benefit the farmers in 1951 by paying them approximately $103 million dollars. The income from payrolls and salaries of the employees of the various industries that process the tobacco amounted to approximately $75 million dollars in 1950. These same industries spent almost $625 million dollars in 1950 for materials utilized and the services expended in the manufacturing process of transforming the raw tobacco into the various products that we buy at the corner store. This process yields the most valuable commodity of the entire state, for the value of the output of the tobacco - manufacturing industry in Virginia for 1950 was over 660 million dollars."

High School Wins Opener

Appomattox High School opened its 1952 baseball schedule with a 13 to 2 win over Dan River High School in a league game played Tuesday at Dan River.

Calvin Tanner pitched a 5 hitter and struck out 10 men to gain his first victory of the season. Hitting was led by "Red" Thomas, who had a home run and a triple for the game and drove in 6 of the 13 runs. Ray Wingfield, who was chosen captain last week for this year's team, had 3 hits, and was followed by Carter Woodson with 2, Teddy Mitchell and Edd Cawthorne with 2 each. A. H. S. collected 15 hits.

Appomattox will play Dan River here Friday at the high school diamond, at 3:30 P. M., in a return game. Maymond Mitchell will pitch for the Blue Hornets. Admission is to be 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for students.

Times-Virginian Announces Straw Vote

Who is your favorite candidate in the Presidential race? Who would you like to see each party nominate at the big conventions?

Right now the primaries in such states as Wisconsin, Nebraska, New Hampshire and Minnisota have attracted wide attention, as citizens of those states have had an opportunity to say who they would like to see nominated. But what about the people in Virginia? Who would they like?

The Times - Virginian is giving its readers a chance to express an opinion. We are publishing today a "STRAW BALLOT." We will publish it again next week: two weeks only. You may mark your choice on this Straw Ballot and mail or bring it to:

The Times-Virginian,
Box 98, Appomattox, Va.

The deadline for all Straw Ballots to be in will be April 15.

Four questions are on the Straw Ballot:

Your choice for the Democratic nomination;

Your choice for the Republican nomination;

Which ticket would you be inclined, as of now, to support?

Are you eligible to vote?

This last query is a sort of reminder to check into the payment of capitation taxes, so you will be able to vote in November.

The Times-Virginian is not asking you to sign your name to your Straw Ballot. All we want to know is your answer to the four questions listed.

The contest being waged for the Republican nomination by candidates such as Senator Taft, General Eisenhower, Gov. Stassen, Gov. Warren, etc. has aroused voters.

Likewise, the announcement by President Truman that he would not be a candidate, has stirred up new interest in the Democratic fold. Those receiving top mention among the Democrats are: Senator Russell of Georgia; Senator Kefauver of Tennessee; Governor Stevenson of Illinois; Senator Robert Kerr and Vice-President Alben Barkley.

As of now, the Times-Virginian has no favorites, and our Straw Vote is Wide Open! We simply feel that it would be of genuine news interest to give the readers a chance to name their choices.

In order to make this straw vote a real expression of what readers are thinking, we request that you VOTE ONLY ONE BALLOT! The ballot will be printed two weeks to give everyone a chance, and does not mean you should vote twice.

Mail or bring your Straw Ballot to The Times-Virginian, Appomattox, Va.

Bids Sought For Widening 6 Miles Of 460

When you come to town this coming Saturday, please sign a donor card at one of the above mentioned places. —Rev. R. Carl Maxwell, Blood Program Chairman.

Campaign For Crop Insurance

Appomattox County farmers whose crops are not yet covered by Federal Crop Insurance will have an opportunity to sign up for it during an intensive sales campaign scheduled for the next few weeks, according to the Appomattox County PMA committee. Farmers signing up before the deadline will have protection on their 1952 and subsequent crops.

This insurance is offered on a selective risk basis, and is not available everywhere to any farmer. It is hoped by the PMA Committee that every eligible grower in Appomattox County who has not already done so will take advantage of this opportunity.

Federal Crop Insurance protects a farmer's investment in his crops against all causes of crop damage, including floods, drought, winds, hail, frost, insects, diseases, and many others.

Cost of the insurance is low, and premium payments can be handled on a basis to suit the convenience of the applicant. Premiums are deductible in computing income tax returns.

CORRECTION

The Times-Virginian regrets that in a listing of registrants called up for physical examination April 2, published last week, the name of Willis Harrison Goin, Spout Spring, was listed as Negro, instead of as White. We are glad to make this correction.

Demo Mass Meeting Here Set For April 18

Democratic voters of Appomattox County will meet here at the court house at 8:00 P. M. on Friday April 18, in a mass meeting to name two sets of delegates to party conventions.

Delegates will be named to the Fourth District Convention to be held in Petersburg, Va., at 2:00 P. M., May 24, at which a candidate for Congress will be nominated. A district convention instead of a primary was decided upon by the District Democratic Committee.

The incumbent Congressman, W. M. Abbitt, of Appomattox, is a candidate for re-nomination.

At the same local meeting, delegates will be selected to represent Appomattox County at the State Democratic Convention, slated for July 12 in Roanoke, Va. The state convention will name delegates to the national party convention.

Republicans Name Almond

Appomattox County Republicans had a mass meeting last night at J. T. Almond's store here. Eight were in attendance. J. T. Almond was re-elected county chairman, and J. J. Wingfield was re-elected secretary.

The date for the Fourth District convention has not been announced. At that time, a district delegate to the national convention will be named. However, at last night's meeting, J. J. Wingfield was named as the Appomattox delegate to the state convention.

After the meeting, informal discussion revealed that all but one of those at the meeting were inclined to favor Eisenhower for President, and that the Taft supporter had been named state delegate.

As alternate state delegate, the meeting appointed Mr. Hugo Slagle.

Circuit Court To Convene Here Tuesday

The April term of the circuit court of Appomattox County will convene here next Tuesday, April 8, at 10:00, with Judge J. W. Flood presiding. The local circuit court date was changed by recent legislation from the first day of the convening month, to Tuesday after the first Monday.

Indications are that there will be a heavier than usual docket at this term of court. A fairly long list of criminal and civil cases will be up for consideration by the court.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

The Senior Class of Appomattox High School is presenting a three-act comedy entitled, 'Who's Crazy Now?" on Thursday, April 10, at 8:00 P. M. in the school auditorium.

The setting of the play is in an "insane asylum for teachers." The line between sanity and insanity is so thin that it is hard to tell the sane from the insane. The mistaken identity of the insane for the sane causes confusion and produces many laughs.

The cast: Peggy Smith, Virginia Herndon, Martha Nash, Peggy Cole, Ann Goad, Shirley Walton, Kathryn Burkey, Mary Ellen Ramsey, Sylvia Burks, Kevin Garrett, David Wood and Randolph Martin.

Included in the group was Sgt. Samuel Doss, of Appomattox.
